

Stuff We Love: Martin Lim and Reitmans' Holiday Dress Capsule Collection

NOV 2, 2012 AT 3:59 PM Chime in now

Reitmans, Canada's largest women's retailer, has collaborated with Montreal design duo Martin Lim to launch a capsule collection this November that will have Canadians clamouring for one of their perfect party frocks.

Danielle Martin and her husband Pao Lim have been collaborating under the Martin Lim label since 2011, garnering industry praise within the fashion industry, and it's easy to see why. Their Reitmans collection has a chic and effortless appeal, with jewel toned colour blocking and a vibrant art deco vibe.

We especially loved the play of layered fabric in the long black "Martini" dress and the cascading tail of fabric on the "Lola" mock halter dress. Gorgeous! And with a price point between $85-120, it makes our holiday party plans feel suddenly very attainable.

With six regular sized, two plus sized and two petite garments, we're pretty sure you'll be able to find a holiday dress that you can slip on and feel like a million bucks.