

Girls of 9.0.

Say it. Wear it. Be it.

Cougar launches Mobile Fitting Room

Posted by Dani Goddard on November 25, 2012 in Events, Fashion | 1 comment

I can never forget winters as a kid in my cute tan coloured Cougar boots, so when I was approached by the company about their new pop-up shop, I jumped at the chance to attend. Still like the brand I loved as a kid, but now with updated styles, Cougar boots are that iconic Canadian piece that is almost mandatory for our harsh winters.

In Toronto at King and Brant St, Cougar launched a mobile fitting room in a truck, which will be driving around the city between Nov. 21 and 30. You get the chance to be photographed wearing the pair you try on against a scenic Canadian backdrop and by doing so, you could win the boots and be the face of the Cougar Pillow Boot on a billboard at the corner of Queen and Spadina.

Who wouldn't love that?

It was hard to decide but I went with these black mid-calf "wedgy" boot and I'm in love. I can't wait to hear the snow crunch under these boots!

For contest details and locations of the truck in the GTA, check www.facebook.com/cougarboots. or if you miss the truck, search a location where Cougar boots are sold!