

Locked inside Tiffany & Co.'s Toronto store for a private party for four

L-R: TARA, ME, ANDREA HOPSON, NELIA AND SHARON

Very few people, if any, can say that they were locked inside a Tiffany & Co. store after hours. And if that were the case you wouldn't get many complaints. Who wouldn't want to spend a night inside the hallowed halls of this legendary jewellery store? Just speaking the company's name alone can make grown women swoon with glee and evoke visions of the Audrey Hepburn.

Where am I going with this you ask? Recently, Sharon and Tara (The Backseat Stylers), Nelia (Style Blog) and I received a once in a lifetime opportunity to experience Tiffany's after dark, a private event hosted by Andrea Hopson, Vice-President of Tiffany & Co. Canada. We would be locked inside the Toronto flagship store with Andrea to celebrate the company's 175th anniversary in an intimate setting and try on its many shiny baubles.

I have to admit that when this invitation landed in my inbox silent squealing and foot stomping occurred inside my cubicle at work. Never in a million years would I imagine being asked to attend a private Tiffany & Co. event!

Donning our little black dresses the four of us were locked inside Tiffany's on a Tuesday night where Andrea shared her knowledge of the company and love of jewellery by taking us through the endless showcases of diamonds, precious gems and metals in every size, shape and colour imaginable; Tanzanite blue diamonds, pink diamonds and the rare yellow diamonds.

We unabashedly tried on as many pieces possible; Sharon adorned herself in several strands of diamond necklaces, Nelia slipped on of the rings and I fell in love with Elsa Peretti collection, particularly the bone cuff and claw necklace.
