Yesterday I cashed in my DearCanada Zara gift card, and got some excellent stuff. I know Zara doesn't have a huge rap for being a go to for the casual urban hipster, but hey, you can do anything if you set your mind to finding a particular look.

Thanks to Zara, I now own what has become my favorite spring combination – the tiger print button up, open, with their le force linen tarot tee peeking out. They're not as pricey as you may think – $49.90 for the button up, and 29.90 for the tee.

So there it is.. I'd support you checking out the online shop, because it's not all power bitch workwear, as I once previously assumed.
