

STUFF by Sarah Marlayne

Zara Online Shopping (finally) comes to Canada

Heads up fashion boys and girls you can now get your Zara fix online in Canada starting March 6!

I've been lucky enough, don't you know, to try out the new shopping site, and it's FAB. U. LOUS.

Sleek minimal design, easy to browse and lots of photos to see what you're buying (and impulse buying).

I treated myself (but really, the prices are so good it's more of an essential) to this great day bag called the "Office City Bag" that will be perfect for summer. Real leather and with sassy zippers - so obsessed with anything with zippers at the moment - I can't wait for it to arrive. It was a on the top end of their prices at $199, but if that's the most expensive thing in the store we're doing just fine.

I chose this one because my mom has a gorgeous, worn-in bag similar to this one (no, not from the brand you might be thinking of) that I have always coveted.

Known for taking the runway styles to your local store in record time, this site will be a welcome edition for those of us without a Zara nearby (sigh). I love shopping online, it's so easy, and many online retailers make returns a snap (you can return via mail or to your local store).

It's launching March 6, so do your chores and save your allowance!