

• CLOTHING •

Zara to Launch Canadian Online Store

By: Mary Kim

Monday, February 4th, 2013

Good news fashion lovers—word is that trendy fashion retailer Zara will soon be launching their online shop for Canadians. Founded in Spain in 1975 by Amancio Ortega and Rosalia Mera, there are currently eight locations in Ontario and hundreds worldwide—from Abu Dhabi to Venezuela.

Related: Shake February blues with colour

The retail powerhouse offers clothing, shoes, and accessories inspired by the runways at affordable prices. This is perfect for those of us who daydream about haute couture but don't want to spend the next month eating out of a can.

We're certainly excited about the launch—there isn't anything more annoying than finding something you really like online only to realize that shipping to Canada isn't an option. Now fans of the brand's chic and on-trend offerings can shop their favourites from home. It's about time!

Stay tuned for more information, we'll update this post as we learn more. In the meantime, here are some of our favourite new Zara looks to get you all excited.

Combined coat – $119
Combination elbow patch blazer – $139

Cape sleeve dress – $79.90
Cuffed trousers – $49.90

Trouser with zips – $79
Parka – $99.90

